

GET PAID YOUR WAY

with
BOX Commission Programs

At BOX, we understand that when you get paid can often be just as important as how much you get paid. Especially in times of transition, onboarding new talent, or expanding your business, it can be helpful to manage the timing of your commissions to cover expenses when you need it most. We'll work with you to ensure that your business is able to run optimally by helping you select the best commission payment options for your given situation.

Monthly Residual Payments

Our default commission structure includes consistent monthly residual income based on meter reads. This program provides Long-Term Consistent Cash Flow without ever having to worry about drops.

Benefits of Working with BOX

Weekly or Bi-Weekly Payments

When cash is needed more frequently to jumpstart deal flow or cover the cost of a new hire, our weekly or bi-weekly payment programs give qualifying partners the cash they need quickly and consistently.

Cash Advance Program

When starting or scaling your energy business or in times of transition, consistent cash advances can help stabilize your business circumstances and get you to smoother periods of steady deal flow.

Commission Offset Loan Program

This Program is especially useful when you already have deals lined up for the future, but need cash flow in the interim. Commission Offset Loans are short-term loans that can be repaid by future commission payments earned.

Next Day Pay Program

For qualifying partners, sometimes it's important to see the benefits of your work immediately. Get paid the day after your deal is accepted by the supplier for access to fast cash to incentivize performance and use as a recruitment tool for top talent.

Annual Upfront Payments

For qualifying partners, large upfront payments can be made available in the payment cycle following the deal closing, for a significant cash flow boost. This is particularly useful when funding new business initiatives or expanding to new markets.

Work with a partner that cares as much about the health of your business as you do.
